Barts Trust report is 'tough but fair'

BY JESSICA ODUBAYO

BARTS Health NHS Trust has pledged to redouble its efforts to make improvements, after an independent report found that some of its services had placed patients at risk of harm.

RAISE YOUR GLASSES TO THE ELEANOR

ELEANOR Arms managers Lesley and Frankie Colclough have been celebrating after the Bow pub was voted Greater London Pub of the Year. Read the full story inside.

A team of inspectors from the Care Quality Commission (CQC) – including doctors, nurses and specialists – scrutinised services at the Royal London Hospital, the London Chest Hospital, Barkantine Birthing Centre and other hospitals in central and east London in November last year.

Generally, the team found that services run by Barts Health were safe, but staffing levels were variable and equipment was not always readily available, which put patients at risk.

The findings, published last week, also said staff morale was low across the trust, the culture was not sufficiently open and that some staff felt unable to raise concerns.

Inspectors also identified problems with patient flow, bed occupancy and planning patient discharges.

"While the majority of patients said that staff were caring and compassionate, and the team saw people treated with dignity and respect, some people complained that they did not feel listened to," the report says.

Inspectors were contacted by a number of people who were dissatisfied with the trust's response to their complaints.

Areas of good practice were also identified, including caring, committed and compassionate staff; good practice in children's services; equal treatment during the day and night for heart attack patients; and good support for relatives when patients were in a life-threatening situation or when difficult decisions needed to be made about continuing care.

The CQC has asked the trust to ensure that risks identified are acted upon; that there are sufficient staff with the right skills mix on wards to deliver safe and effective care; that equipment is readily available when needed; and that all patients receive nutritious food in sufficient quantities.

Barts Health said the CQC report was tough but fair: "The report recognises that Barts Health is a relatively new organisation, and we have work to do to develop leadership in our new teams, and on our organisational culture."

Lucky escape for no. 78

In 1952 a no. 78 bus had to leap from one bascule to the other when the bridge began to rise with the bus still on it.

Keeping one's feet on the ground

The bridge's high-level walkways were designed so that the public could still cross the bridge when raised. They were closed in 1910 due to lack of use as pedestrians preferred to remain on the ground.

Birthday celebration for iconic bridge

The bridge is raised about 1,000 times a year

The engine room at the bridge

BY JESSICA ODUBAYO

ONE of the most striking structures in the borough and one of the capital's major tourist attractions marks its 120th anniversary this year.

Built by the Victorians, Tower Bridge attracts hundreds of thousands of visitors who flock to the area, to see the world famous landmark, which is raised about 1,000 times a year to allow tall vessels to pass through.

The bridge took 432 construction workers eight years to build using more than 11,000 tons of steel for the framework.

When it was built, it was the largest and most sophisticated bascule (French for see-saw) bridge ever completed. The bascules were operated by hydraulics, using steam to power the pumping engines, but are now driven by oil and electricity.

This winter, the public are being given an opportunity to see behind the scenes, as part of engineering tours taking place every weekend during January and March.

The tours will give people a rare insight into the bridge and its engine rooms

Have your say on the council's budget plan

BY RAJU MIAH

RESIDENTS are invited to discuss their priorities on council services at the mayor's budget roadshows.

They take place at Idea Store Bow on Tuesday, January 21 and at Idea Store Whitechapel on Monday, January 27 – both from 5.30-7.30pm.

The proposed budget was considered by the cabinet earlier this month and residents now have the chance to view it.

The roadshows are designed to give residents the opportunity to consider the proposals.

Feedback will be collected from both events and presented to the cabinet to discuss in early February.

Mayor Lutfur Rahman said: "This is a fantastic opportunity for residents to have a look at our budget proposals and provide feedback in order for us to deliver the services our community needs and wants."

Cabinet member for resources Cllr Alibor Choudhury said: "We welcome residents' views on our budget proposals and I strongly encourage local people to attend one of our roadshows."

The sessions are open to all and booking is not required. For more information visit www.towerhamlets.gov.uk/budget

Pub is pride of London

A PUB in Bow with a history linked to the Suffragettes has been voted Greater London Pub of the Year.

The Eleanor Arms in Old Ford Road impressed the judges from the Society for the Preservation of Beers from the Wood, with the quality of its traditional draught beers, as well as its friendly and efficient staff, and for being what the judges called a "genuine community pub".

Frankie Colclough and his wife Lesley have managed the pub for six years, working with full-time barmaid Keilley Grant.

"We were absolutely thrilled and surprised to win and look forward to celebrating through all of 2014," Frankie said.

A NEW walking group has set up at Wilton's Music Hall in Wapping. Meeting every Friday at 9.30am, they will explore routes around St Katharine Docks, Wapping, Shadwell and beyond. ### News in brief

Late nativity show

A THEATRE group, which champions human rights causes, will be staging a play in Poplar this weekend, January 25 and 26.

Caste Away Arts has previously run theatre workshops with slum children in India and worked with victims of caste prejudice and of domestic violence.

Now the company is working with residents from different backgrounds, mainly living in and around the Aberfeldy Estate, on a modern telling of the nativity story.

"Some participants have mental health problems or are unemployed. Working on this has given them a focus and new skills," artistic director Rena Dipti Annobil told East End Life.

Performances start at 7.30pm at St Nicholas Church, Aberfeldy Street, E14.

Tickets priced £2.50 for adults and £1 for children are available in advance or on the door. Email info@casteawayarts.com

Cancer fundraiser

MILE End resident Nicola Joseph will go an epic Thames journey this Saturday, January 25, in aid of Macmillan Cancer Support.

Nicola and other fundraisers will head back and forth across the river using all 27 bridges, the foot tunnels and the cable car. Dressed in fancy dress, they will cover about 34 miles on foot.

"We have all been affected by cancer in some way. The pain and heartache it causes is beyond words," Nicola said.

To offer your support by giving a donation, go to www.justgiving.com/teams/cott

Outdoor opening

YOUNG people are invited to sign up for a free three-month training scheme to become an outdoor activity instructor.

The training, run by Shadwell Basin Outdoor Activity Centre, starts at the end of February and is for residents aged 16-21 who are unemployed or not in education or training.

More details can be found at Idea Stores, the careers service in Bow Road by calling the centre on 7481 4210 or emailing info@Shadwell-Basin.org.uk

The closing date for expressions of interest is January 27.

Winter warmers

HOMELESS people who spend Tuesday nights at a winter shelter at St Matthias community centre in Poplar are being kitted out with warm clothing.

Andy Madray, a security officer at the Poplar campus of Tower Hamlets College, went on a sponsored mountain climb last August and raised £500 for a youth group run by South Poplar and Limehouse Action for Secure Housing (Splash).

The youth group decided to spend some of the money on clothes for the homeless project, which runs every night of the week for five months of the year.

Trust accepts report findings

The statement from Barts continued: "We are reaffirming very strongly that bullying has no place at Barts Health, and staff are strongly encouraged to raise any concerns they have about their workplace or the care provided to our patients."

Professor Sir Mike Richards, CQC chief inspector of hospitals, said: "Barts Health Trust is a very large, complex organisation which plays a vital part in the life of many Londoners."

"I would encourage local people to read the individual reports on their local hospital or service as these give a detailed view of the care we saw being delivered."

The CQC also called for better engagement between the trust's executive board and staff and asked the executive to listen to and act on concerns and adopt a zero tolerance approach to bullying.

Other measures being taken by the trust include a recruitment drive and improving its complaints handling services.

The longest running community music company in the UK, CM is celebrating 30 years of working with young musicians from a variety of backgrounds, as Raju Miah reports.

30 years of kickstarting careers... from Asian Dub to jazz star Pine

AMONG those joining in community music company CM's 30th anniversary celebrations were members of Asian Dub Foundation, who first got together at CM's studios in the 1990s.

Another success story which started at CM is jazz musician Courtney Pine, who joined CM as an 18-year-old in 1984.

And there are hundreds of other musicians who got their first leg-up into the business thanks to founders John Stevens and Dave O'Donnell, who held the first course for community musicians in 1983.

Since then they have gone on to organise training and degree courses, help musicians, including Asian Dub Foundation, get their first recording contracts, and set up music events across Europe.

The project has trained more than 10,000 professional musicians, many of whom have gone on to work in the music industry and in higher and further education.

And CM has enabled countless musicians and other organisations to establish themselves within the wider music industry.

The special 30th anniversary party held at Rich Mix in Bethnal Green last month saw influential musical figures from CM's history share the stage with the stars of the future.

It also gave guests an opportunity to look back through CM's 30 years with an exhibition of photos and a timeline of events marking its development over the last three decades.

The exhibition highlighted the previous groundbreaking work CM has done with musicians and local communities.

bass-heavy beats. Like many professionals who come through CM, lead guitarist Steve Savale (pictured above, centre) remains close to his roots and now lectures on the creative music production and business course.

"I have been involved with CM for many years now, as a student, musician and now teacher. ADF owe their career to CM. The experience and principles we got from CM were invaluable and remained with us throughout our career," Steve said.

CM provides opportunities for people of all backgrounds in creative music making through a diverse programme of courses, live gigs, training courses and degree-level music production and business training, all of which are either free or offered at low cost.

In 2008 it moved to a purpose-built industry-standard facility in the Brady Arts Centre in Whitechapel where it thrives.

Opening up Fortress Wapping

The London Dock development will have buildings ranging from five to 25 storeys high. New pedestrian routes will run through the scheme and more than half the site will be open space.

A new beginning

St George acquired the former News International site in May 2012 and has since consulted 1,850 people.

1,800 homes plan approved

BY LARAINÉ CLAY

THE redevelopment of the former News International site in Wapping has been given the go-ahead by the council.

Members of the strategic development committee approved the plans for the London Dock scheme on January 9.

Developer St George is proposing 1,800 new homes (of which a third would be affordable) land for a new secondary school and more than 20,000 sq metres of commercial space supporting as many as 1,200 new jobs.

A spokesman for St George said more than half the 15-acre site would be open space including a new civic square, a quay-side next to Pennington Street warehouse, and landscaped and water gardens.

The grade II listed warehouse will be at the heart of the development with a mix of uses such as cafés, restaurants and small offices.

Ross Faragher, managing director of St George, said: "We are delighted Tower Hamlets Council has resolved to grant consent for this exceptional development. We look forward to continuing to work with Tower Hamlets Council and the local community as the development progresses."

The design was drawn up with the views of local people who attended more than 40 consultation events organised by the developers.

Designer Patel Taylor said the scheme aimed to break down the barrier of the former Fortress Wapping with routes through the site and varied landscapes inspired by the historic London Dock.

Work on phase one of the development, which will include 70 affordable homes in Times House and a new civic square, is due to start this spring.

The application will first have to be referred to the mayor of London for him to determine whether he wishes to call in the application.

News from the Mayor

Loss of fire station is a blow to us all

THE closure of Bow fire station was a sad day for all those involved in the campaign to keep Tower Hamlets safe.

This council joined nine other local authorities in what was ultimately an unsuccessful judicial review of the decision by the fire authority to close several stations across London.

I will continue to monitor the situation for evidence that the safety of residents has been compromised by this woeful decision.

On that theme of community safety, I was heartened to learn of more examples where our THEO sniffer dogs have been used to tackle drugs and anti-social behaviour on estates.

Community safety is a top concern for residents and the recent installation of CCTV cameras on the Aberfeldy Estate is evidence of our commitment in action. Our CCTV camera team helped the police make 888 arrests during 2013, demonstrating what a valuable resource this is for the borough.

Cycle safety has been in the news recently and earlier this month we launched a scheme to support Operation Safeway by giving away over 1,000 safer cycling packs to cyclists.

Over the next few weeks we

will be holding a range of events including budget consultations, a tea dance for older residents and an event to identify much-needed support for carers.

Councils play an enabling role in communities and I intend to use each annual budget-setting round to ensure the council continues to support our most vulnerable residents.

January 27 marks Holocaust Memorial Day and an interfaith service is planned at Nelson Street Synagogue. The council will be hosting a week of events to raise awareness and continue to strengthen community cohesion.

In a year in which the country will mark the 100th anniversary of the Great War it is still as important as ever to promote understanding between communities and nations.

Mayor Lutfur Rahman

Mayor inspired by visit to Bishop Challoner

BY IAN READ

THE positive role of Catholics in the community life of the borough was praised by Mayor Lutfur Rahman after a special meeting last week.

He went to Bishop Challoner Catholic Collegiate School in Stepney on January 14, where he met more than 60 members of the Catholic community.

They included priests and parishioners from all of the borough's Catholic churches, representatives from the seven ethnic chaplaincies and all nine Catholic primary schools, and Bishop Challoner head teacher Jackie Johnson.

Mayor Rahman with some of the guests

Mayor Rahman heard stories from those involved in local institutions, some of whose relationship with the Catholic community stretches back more than 50 years.

He was also given a tour of the new school site by students and watched some lessons taking place.

Mayor Rahman said: "It was an honour to spend so much time with the members of the Catholic community and to meet so many truly inspirational people.

"This event demonstrated once again how important faith continues to be in the modern world and how, in particular, it can make a real difference within our multi-faith community."

Father Michael Dunne, the Dean of Tower Hamlets, said it was a very worthwhile meeting, adding: "The mayor was very energised to meet some Catholic people in an agenda which was similar to his own; namely building relationships with the people and also contributing to the borough in issues of diversity."

Cannabis seized in raid on estate

BY STAFF REPORTER

A POLICE raid on a Bethnal Green estate has sent a New Year warning to drug dealers.

Members of the borough's Partnership Task Force (PTF), accompanied by a police search dog team, swooped on Wyllen Close and Collingwood Estate in Bethnal Green last Wednesday, January 15.

They found about 50 bags of herbal cannabis – with a street value of £500 – hidden in bin sheds, electrical cupboards and drains.

Several people were stopped and searched under section 23 of the Misuse of Drugs Act and one person was arrested.

The task force is based at Bethnal Green police station and their duties include tackling drugs supply and anti-social behaviour within areas designated in part by the council.

Target areas are chosen at fortnightly partnership meetings attended by the police, council officers and residents who are interested in helping to make their area safer.

Sergeant Peacock, a PTF supervisor, said: "I am very pleased with the outcome and with my team who continue to work hard to bring fantastic results such as this."

PC Turner of the PTF added: "Utilising the police search dogs gives us the edge in finding drugs hidden by dealers and this allows us to build a larger intelligence picture around what is happening in our tasking areas."

Anyone with information that could help police make the community safer or who is concerned about children or teenagers being involved with drugs is urged to dial 101 or speak to their Safer Neighbourhoods Team. Alternatively, call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555111.

News from Barts Health NHS Trust

BARTS Health recently celebrated the fantastic achievements of more than 100 local people who have shown dedication to improving their health and wellbeing by completing our community training programme and securing employment at the trust.

The Barts Health Community Awards take place annually in recognition of the achievements of people on the Community Works for Health programme, which helps local people get local jobs, especially those with a poor health history, disability or a long-term condition.

Over the last year, more than 100 people have been helped to gain work through the programme which runs employment training, apprenticeship and placement schemes.

Roles secured include nursing and laboratory assistants, as well as positions in clinical and corporate administration.

People have also benefited from specialist training, advice and placement support, including over 70 people who gained a qualification and work experience through an apprenticeship with Barts Health last year.

At the awards, Vishnu Ravi, an administrator in the central appointments team, was commended with a Star Award, one of a number of people who received the award in recognition for performing above and beyond during the programme.

Vishnu, who is 26, said: "The programme is the best I've been on and really helped to boost my confidence. I am truly grateful for the support provided, without it I would not be in employment today."

In east London there are more than 30,000 people receiving unemployment benefits and approximately 50 per cent of these benefits are health-related.

Community programmes manager Sadhek Khan explained: "We know helping people into employment improves their health, boosts confidence and gives people the opportunity to take control of their own wellbeing. As the largest health care provider in east London, Barts Health is committed to making a positive impact within the communities we serve through improved health services and by helping to reduce unemployment."

A&E for emergencies

Every winter, thousands of patients who do not have life-threatening conditions attend A&E departments when they could have received faster and more convenient care elsewhere.

There are many local non-emergency services that can help, you and your family feel better and recover from common illnesses. You can make an appointment with your GP, or visit an out-of-hours GP if yours is closed, attend an Urgent Care Centre (8am to 10pm) or pop into your local pharmacy for expert advice.

If you are unsure where to go for help, or to find details of all of your local health care services visit the NHS Choices website www.nhs.uk or call NHS 111.

Some people may be more susceptible to developing serious illness. If you are over 65, pregnant, very young or have a long-term condition such as asthma or diabetes, speak to your doctor. Emergency departments are for a very specific reason – to help save lives.

If you feel unwell, there are a number of things you can do:

- Keep paracetamol or aspirin, anti-diarrhoea medicine, rehydration mixture, indigestion remedy and a thermometer in your medicine cabinet at home.
- Your local pharmacist can give you friendly, expert advice without the need of an appointment.
- Your GP can help you get the care you need at a convenient time and place. You can register with a GP with two forms of ID.
- When your GP is closed and you need medical help fast, but it is not an emergency, you can call NHS 111.

A 'new year' for the trees

BUSINESS people working on the Canary Wharf estate joined members of the Jewish community to celebrate the Festival of Tu B'Shvat last Wednesday by planting a tree in Jubilee Park.

They were joined by children from a school in north London who sang songs and presented elderly people with fruit baskets. Wednesday was the beginning of the Jewish 'new year' for trees, occurring on the fifteenth day of the month of Shvat.

Danny Seliger from Canary Wharf Group and organiser of the event, said: "The tree planted today is symbolic for a number of reasons. The planting and accompanying lunch brings together workers and the local community, including children."

Story of Anne Frank brought to life

A FORMER Swansea School student, who now works with the Anne Frank Trust, took an exhibition to the school and led workshops based on Anne's inspiring story.

Through the two-week exhibition, Mukith Khalisadar also gave students an insight into the impact that prejudice and hatred can cause.

Ten GCSE history students from year 9 were trained as peer educators to guide classes around the display.

"Anne Frank never stopped believing in humanity, despite knowing what was happening to her Jewish friends and neighbours at the time," said Mukith, a senior project officer with the trust.

"Anne's rejection of hatred is an inspiration to people everywhere. Her ideals of respect and acceptance continue to be relevant to us today."

Barwaqo Jama (pictured right), 13, one of the peer educators, said: "Not only have I learned an important lesson in history, taking part in the project has also boosted my confidence."

"It has made me think about how people were treated because of their race and how wrong it is to mistreat other people."

"We all have a role to play in ensuring that this tragic period of history is never repeated."

On Holocaust Memorial Day on January 27, the Whitechapel school will host a visit from Holocaust survivor Rudi Oppenheimer and staff from the Jewish Museum in north London.

Life-saving charity celebrates 25 years and looks ahead to future

BY JESSICA ODUBAYO

AS it commemorates its 25th anniversary, the charity which runs London's Air Ambulance has thanked people in the capital for their help in maintaining the life-saving service.

The emergency helicopter, which delivers an advanced trauma team to critically injured people across the capital, has treated more than 30,000 patients and attended most major incidents inside the M25 since its inception on January 9, 1989.

Initially set up as a partnership between the Royal London Hospital, the government and Express Newspapers, it was the first air ambulance in the UK to carry a doctor on board at all times.

It became a familiar sight, taking off from, and landing on, the helipad on the roof of the Royal London in Whitechapel.

In 2012, it relocated to a helipad on the roof of the new hospital building in Stepney Way, some 284ft above the ground.

London's Air Ambulance on the helipad on the roof of the Royal London Hospital, and left, the Queen visited the team after the July 7 bombings in 2005 when they helped 700 patients

The helicopter emergency service works alongside the London Ambulance Service, Metropolitan Police and the London Fire Brigade to improve life chances for seriously ill and injured people. It relies on support from the public, corporate partners, trusts and foundations and livery companies.

"Despite a tough journey, our service has survived thanks to the generosity of the London community," a spokeswoman for the charity said.

"We are fund raising for a second helicopter and to extend our daylight flying hours. Achieving this target will help us reach a further 400 patients by aircraft every year."

'I owe my life to London's Air Ambulance teams'

RUNU Miah (pictured right), 36, owes his life to the air ambulance team based on the Royal London Hospital helipad near his home in Whitechapel.

Almost five years ago, he was training to become a taxi driver and was riding his moped, to gain knowledge of London's streets, when he was knocked off and run over by a car.

He suffered severe limb and pelvic injuries and lost vast amounts of blood. London's Air Ambulance team were at his side within minutes. Dr Matt

Gunning and paramedic Nick Gray assessed Runu's injuries, administered pain relief, splinted his limbs and pelvis, and requested blood to be ready on the helipad as soon as they touched down.

Prior to his accident, Runu volunteered for international poverty relief charity Human Aid UK. More than 16 operations later, he now fundraises for the air ambulance and has initiated a partnership with Human Aid UK.

"Fundraising for London's Air Ambulance means giving back to the local community, as you never know who will need their services next. Before they saved my life, I hadn't realised how valuable London's Air Ambulance is.

"I want to help this amazing charity continue their operations," Runu said.

One stop success

BY POPPY TURNER

THE council's domestic violence One Stop Shop has celebrated its second anniversary.

Since its inception at the end of 2011, the One Stop Shop has supported more than 450 clients by offering advice in relation to housing, law, criminal procedures, emotional and practical support, and safety planning.

It has also referred 320 vulnerable clients, including children at risk of harm, to social services to help them access further support.

The walk-in service brings together representatives from the council's domestic violence and anti-hate crime team, non-uniform police officers, professionals from the homeless person's unit, an independent advocate from Victim Support Tower Hamlets and a solicitor.

Working together in one location, they can provide a comprehensive service for people seeking advice and support about domestic violence.

Staff do not wear uniform and provide an approachable and accessible service to those suffering from domestic violence. It enables clients to access support services quickly and easily, which is especially important for those who have complex needs or children.

Mayor Lutfur Rahman said: "Community safety is one of my top priorities, and tackling domestic violence and supporting victims is an important part of that. The One Stop Shop provides a convenient and effective way for victims of domestic violence to access help and support in one place."

Deputy Mayor Cllr Ohid Ahmed added: "The One Stop Shop provides an opportunity for victims of domestic violence to make a report without having to go to a police station – which can be a real deterrent for some."

"Since it was set up two years ago, it has been a real success, and has had increasing numbers of clients, including men, attending."

■ The One Stop Shop is at Jagonari Centre, 183-185 Whitechapel Road, E1 and opens every Monday between 9.30am and 12.30pm.

Down on the city farm

BY JESSICA ODUBAYO

STEPNEY City Farm has launched a campaign asking the public to help keep it open.

In exchange for donations, the farm is offering prizes to encourage supporters to help it meet its fundraising target of £15,000 by the end of February.

Money pledged will help the farm remain open six days a week and free to visit by people of all ages.

Prizes include a monthly delivery of farmyard compost, farm chickens and everything you'd need to keep them in your garden, and an opportunity to have a selection of rabbits and guinea pigs brought to your place of work. You could also win organic cotton polo shirts, a print of a cockerel by photographer Elisa Noguera and pottery or blacksmithing classes led by the farm's resident rural artists.

And everyone who pledges £5 or more will have their name featured on a supporters' wall at the farm.

As well as raising crops, which are sold in its shop and café, and animals, the farm also hosts a farmers' market.

Over the last three years, it has worked with local schools, welcomed students for work placements and provided community growing spaces.

Farm director Jessica Hodge said: "One of my favourite things about working at the farm is hearing from visitors who have just discovered that there's a real working farm right on their doorstep. Disbelief rapidly turns to wonder and delight and new visitors quickly become regulars."

"The costs of opening to the public are not huge but can feel insurmountable to a small charity like ours with no regular income, except for that which we generate in our farm shop and café, or by providing team volunteering days for businesses."

Visit www.crowdfunder.co.uk/stepneycityfarm to pledge your support.

Braving the bombs in World War II

World War II saw the brigade's finest hour yet, as fire crews tackled 57 successive nights of bombing. Tragically, more than 300 firefighters would die during the Blitz.

History

Brigade's proud tradition dates back to the Great Fire of London

BY JOHN RENNIE

THURSDAY, January 9 at 9.30am and firefighters at ten of London's fire stations came off shift for the final time. As the doors of Bow fire station in Parnell Road swung shut for good, there were tears and fears for the future.

For though the grey modern box of Bow station may not have been the most historic of the ten that closed (that sad honour goes to Clerkenwell, London's oldest surviving station, dating back to the 1870s), it was part of a tradition that dates back more than 350 years, to the Great Fire of London.

The Parnell Road building replaced an early 20th century station, which, in its turn, had replaced a still earlier station in Glebe Road. But the roots of what would become the London Fire Brigade were in the terrible conflagration that destroyed London, yet took so few lives, between Sunday and Wednesday, September 2 and 5, 1666.

Samuel Pepys noted in his diary that he loaded his valuables and his wife into a cart and fled for the safety of a friend's home in the Middlesex countryside of Bethnal Green. The mayor of London's response to the fire had been too little and much too late. The ace administrator Pepys wrote in his diary that things would have to change.

And they did – slowly. Now houses had to be built of brick or stone rather than wood, and the first fire brigades came into being. Most people were uninsured before the Great Fire and many were ruined by it.

Now new fire insurance companies sprung up, charging hefty premiums, and using these to finance their own brigades. They would use firemarks to identify which buildings were protected by them. Look at the sides of older buildings in the City, and you will sometimes see these elaborate crests high on the walls (they also served as advertisements).

So when somebody called 'fire!', perhaps half a dozen appliances would attend, all from different agencies. The various brigades wore brightly coloured uniforms, so they could be told apart. If they didn't see their firemark on the building, they would simply head for home and let it burn.

The high-tech engines of today were a long way off, but in 1721, Richard Newsham patented a 'new water engine for the quenching and extinguishing of fires'. This pump could provide a continuous jet of water with some force, something that had not been possible before.

Training was rudimentary too, and quenching fires was tiring work, with hand-pumping of the appliances, so they would offer spectators 'beer tokens' in return for their help.

As with so much in London, it was the Victorian era that saw things get really organised. In 1833, ten of the insurance companies joined together to form the London Fire Engine Establishment.

The LFEE would, for the next 28 years, be headed by the redoubtable James Braidwood. An experienced fireman from Edinburgh, he took the job very seriously, introducing a uniform of grey jacket and trousers with knee high boots and black leather helmet.

But on June 22, 1861, Braidwood's life was tragically ended in what was seen as the greatest fire since 1666. The blaze at Cottons Wharf on Tooley Street, at a warehouse storing hemp and jute, raged for 14 days. And in the fire a wall collapsed and killed Braidwood. He was a well known and beloved figure – Queen Victoria sent condolences. But the London Fire Brigade went from strength to strength. After the Tooley Street blaze, insurance companies told the government the cost of compensation was becoming too high, and government decided the Metropolitan Board of Works would take control.

The Metropolitan Fire Brigade (MFB) was formed in 1866 and was controlled by the Metropolitan Board of Works, which was responsible for protecting all life and property from fire throughout London. Captain Sir Eyre Massey Shaw succeeded Braidwood. He established a new rank system and uniform, built new fire stations and employed new technology to improve the service. Equally as famous as his predecessor, he was pals with the Prince of Wales (the future Edward VII) who enjoyed being taken out to the scene of large fires and even had his own fireman's uniform made.

Now there were steam fire engines which could pump 300 gallons of water a minute. Shaw had 40 fire alarms erected throughout London and started using the telegraph system, which speeded up the response to fires. And basic breathing apparatus was also introduced allowing firemen to enter fires without inhaling the smoke. Massey Shaw would only recruit sailors as he believed that after a seaman's training they would have learnt discipline and be strong and hardy. They were tested for their strength and health, and spent three months at training school before joining a station... where they lived as well as worked.

As the 20th century dawned, East End firemen were equipped to tackle ever bigger fires. In 1935, Colonial Wharf, an eight-storey rubber warehouse in Wapping High Street, burned for four days from September 27, with 60 fire engines in attendance. It was the first major incident for one of the LFB's most famous fireboats, the Massey Shaw (named after the legendary chief officer).

But it was World War II that saw their finest hour yet, as crews (now supplemented by volunteers and women for the first time) tackled 57 successive nights of bombing.

On September 7, 1940 a sub-officer at West Ham fire station witnessed the start of the Blitz, reporting that three miles of waterfront buildings had become a continuous blaze, and calling 500 fire engines to be mobilised... a number swiftly revised upwards to 1,000.

More than 300 firefighters would die during the Blitz. The Massey Shaw played its role in the evacuation from Dunkirk too – ferrying more than 500 servicemen to larger vessels and back to safety in England.

Peacetime too saw infernos to quench. On December 5, 1964 London's main freight terminal, Bishopsgate goods station, was ablaze. Forty fire engines, 12 turntable ladders, two hose layers, two emergency tenders, and 235 firefighters battled a fire which killed two customs officials and destroyed hundreds of railway wagons, dozens of cars and lorries, and millions of pounds worth of goods.

In 1969, Dudgeons Wharf on the Isle of Dogs, with its vast store of oils and spirits, was sparked by workmen cutting up old oil tanks. Six pumps, a foam tender and the ever reliable Massey Shaw were soon on site, but tragedy struck when an oil tank exploded. Five men from Millwall and Poplar stations were killed, the largest single loss of life in the brigade since the war.

There have been terrorist attacks too: the July 1974 bomb at the Tower of London, leaving one dead and 17 injured; the 1993 Bishopsgate bomb, killing one man and injuring more than 40; the 1996 South Quay bomb in which two people died. Each time, the London Fire Brigade was on the scene, East End and City firefighters, laying their lives on the line.

Times and needs change and of course these days austerity is biting hard. But Bethnal Green, Poplar, Shadwell, Shoreditch and Whitechapel remain, continuing that proud history, among the 102 London stations left after the cuts.

Defenders of local London will be watching carefully for what comes next.

TOWER Hamlets Council has been recognised for its positive impact on the lives of children and young people after being short-listed for two national awards.

The Integrated Service for Disabled Children in the children's services directorate and the Healthy Early Years Accreditation Scheme run by public health are up for recognition in the Local Government Chronicle (LGC) awards.

A record-breaking 640 entries were submitted for the awards, demonstrating local government's enthusiasm to share innovation and to reward teams and individuals who make change happen.

There are more than 80 organisations in the final.

With budgets at the forefront of priorities this year, the LGC has stressed the importance of highlighting the organisations which demonstrate best practice.

Some of the Integrated Services for Disabled Children team

Mayor Lutfur Rahman said: "Ensuring all children have access to the best level of service and treatment is a top priority for the council.

"It is excellent to be recognised for the co-ordinated approach across partnerships that have helped improve the health and wellbeing of families."

The Healthy Early Years Accreditation Scheme is a partnership between the public health and early years services and provides a framework to support playgroups, school nurseries, childminders, children's centres and libraries to provide safe and supportive physical and emotional environments, appropriate nutrition and support stable relationships.

Achievements include measurable improvements in healthy eating, physical activity and emotional wellbeing in children, and increased awareness of key health messages.

The Integrated Service for Disabled Children is a virtual team that responds to the needs of disabled children and families. It brings together services across social care, education, health and third sector to commission and deliver services.

The awards are being held on March 14 - the full list of finalists can be found at www.lgcawards.com

কাউন্সিলের বাজেট প্রস্তাবণায় ১০০ জন মহিলার কর্মসংস্থানের পরিকল্পনা ঘোষণা

Budget proposals to help women into work – page 3

টাওয়ার হ্যামলেটস্ বারার প্রায় ১০০ জন মহিলাকে স্বাস্থ্য ক্ষেত্রে কর্মসংস্থানের পরিকল্পনার কথা ঘোষণা করেছে কাউন্সিল।

গত সপ্তাহে অনুষ্ঠিত কেবিনেট মিটিংয়ে নির্বাহী মেয়র লুৎফুর রহমান কর্তৃক বাজেট প্রস্তাবণার অংশ হিসেবে মহিলাদের কর্মসংস্থানের এই পরিকল্পনা চূড়ান্ত করা হয়। আগামী ফেব্রুয়ারী মাসে অনুষ্ঠিতব্য ফুল কাউন্সিল মিটিংয়ে বাজেট প্রস্তাবণা নিয়ে আলোচনা করা হবে।

মহিলাদের জন্য চাকুরি নিশ্চিত করার এই প্রস্তাবণার প্রেক্ষিতে বর্ণনা করে মেয়র লুৎফুর রহমান বলেন, “শিশুদের জন্য বিনামূল্যে স্কুল মিল সরবরাহ করার যে আমরা নিয়েছিলাম, তা এখন কেন্দ্রীয় সরকার অনুমোদন করেছে। এখন আমরা স্বাস্থ্য খাতে কিছু অর্থ বিনিয়োগ করার পরিকল্পনা হাতে নিয়েছি, যা আমাদের কমিউনিটির ২৫-৩৫ বয়সী মহিলাদের দক্ষতা বৃদ্ধির পাশাপাশি কর্মসংস্থান নিশ্চিত করবে।”

গত ডিসেম্বর ২০১৩ মাসের শেষ নাগাদ দেশের সকল কাউন্সিলের জন্য সরকার কর্তৃক

অর্থ খরচ সংক্রান্ত সিদ্ধান্ত ঘোষণার প্রেক্ষিতে টাওয়ার হ্যামলেটস্ কাউন্সিল তার বাজেট প্রস্তাবণাসমূহ চূড়ান্ত করেছে। সরকার প্রদত্ত সেটলমেন্ট এটা ফের নিশ্চিত করেছে যে, কাউন্সিলকে অর্থ সাশ্রয়ী পদক্ষেপ অব্যাহত রাখতে হবে। তারপরও কাউন্সিল বর্তমান ফান্ডিংয়ের অব্যাহত চাপকে বিবেচনায় নিয়ে ২০১৪-১৫ অর্থ বছরের জন্য একটি সুখম বাজেট প্রস্তাব করতে পারছে।

মেয়র লুৎফুর রহমান বলেন, “সর্বোচ্চ বিচ্ছিন্নতার সাথে কাউন্সিলের অর্থ খরচের পদ্ধতি অনুমোদন করায় সরকারের কাছ থেকে প্রাপ্য গ্র্যান্টের ২৪ শতাংশ হ্রাসের চাপকে সাশ্রয়ী পদক্ষেপ নিয়ে মোকাবেলা করা সম্ভব হয়েছে।”

তিনি আরো বলেন, “তবে এই আর্থিক সংকোচন নীতির কোন চাপ আমাদের জনগুরুত্বপূর্ণ সার্ভিসসমূহের ওপর যেমন পড়তে দেয়া হয়নি, তেমনি বারার অসহায় জনগোষ্ঠিকে প্রয়োজনীয় সকল ধরনের সহায়তা প্রদানও অব্যাহত রাখা হয়েছে। আমরা আমাদের লাইব্রেরী সার্ভিসে, হাউজিং ও স্কুলগুলোতে বিনিয়োগ অব্যাহত রেখেছি।”

বাজেট প্রস্তাবণাসমূহের মধ্যে রয়েছে, পঞ্চম বছরের মতো কাউন্সিল ট্যাক্স স্থিতিবস্থায় রাখার পাশাপাশি মেয়রস্ হায়ার এডুকেশন এওয়ার্ড এর মতো অন্যান্য মৌলিক ও গুরুত্বপূর্ণ নীতিনির্ধারণী খাতে তহিবল যোগান অব্যাহত রাখা এবং সরকারের আর্থিক কর্তন নীতির ফলে চাপের মুখে পড়া সার্ভিসসমূহ ও উল্লেখ্য সেক্টরকে সহায়তা প্রদান অব্যাহত রাখা।

কেবিনেট মিটিংয়ে অনুমোদিত বাজেট প্রস্তাবণা নিয়ে ফেব্রুয়ারী মাসের প্রথম দিকে জুটিনি কমিটি আলোচনা করবে। পরে ২৬ ফেব্রুয়ারী অনুষ্ঠিতব্য পূর্ণাঙ্গ কাউন্সিল মিটিংয়ে বাজেটটের চূড়ান্ত খসড়া প্রস্তাবণা উপস্থাপন করা হবে।

বাজেট প্রস্তাবণার ওপর বারার জনসাধারণও তাদের অভিমত তুলে ধরতে পারবেন। আগামী ২১ জানুয়ারী বো আইডিয়া স্টোরে এবং ২৭ জানুয়ারী হোয়াইটচ্যাপেল আইডিয়া স্টোরে দুটি বাজেট রোড শো অনুষ্ঠিত হবে।

Walk of the month:
In and around St
Katharine Docks

Coins,

corners

This month, Graham Barker discovers the Royal Mint, St Katharine Docks and Wilton's Music Hall. Photos by Kois Miah.

If you've resolved to exercise more this New Year then a brisk walk can be an enjoyable way to do it. Why not don your winter woollies and step out on this route?

You'll be rewarded with waterside views over St Katharine Docks and the Thames, and glimpses into the Royal Mint and Wilton's Music Hall. All in all, there's plenty to lift your spirits on a January day.

At Tower Gateway DLR station, leave by the open end of the platform and step down to the one-way system; from there it's a quick hop to the corner of Royal Mint Street. Continue around the high wall and soon an impressive gateway marks your arrival at the former Royal Mint (1).

Walk through and you're in a different world. The minting of coins moved here from the Tower of London in 1809. As well as bullion stores and steam-powered machinery, the site housed the Mint masters and had its own military guard. It wasn't until 1968 – with the prospect of decimalisation – that the Royal Mint relocated to South Wales.

You'll get a closer look later on, so for now head to the red post box where a subway of children's artworks takes you under The Highway. You emerge in the shadow of glass-walled offices, home to City solicitors. Skirt left and the view opens out across St Katharine Docks (2).

To maximise the quayside length, engineer Thomas Telford designed St Katharine Docks in 1827 as two inter-connected basins. This gives it an intimate scale, quite different in character to the other East End docks. Thames sailing barges (3) – with their distinctive red-brown sails – are moored here. These flat-bottomed boats transported sand, coal, grain and bricks along the shallow waters of the Thames estuary. From the towpath you appreciate their size, it's astounding they only needed a two-man crew.

Colourful enamel panels by Dale Devereux Barker brighten up the docks. By the final panel, nip under the hotel and head to the Thames. From Wendy Taylor's giant Timepiece sundial there are spectacular views to Tower Bridge (4), an iconic feature of London's skyline.

Tower Bridge was opened with much fanfare in 1894, having taken £1 million and eight years to construct. Architect Horace Jones' innovative design incorporates a suspension bridge, a girder bridge and a bascule draw-bridge. It was originally painted chocolate brown, Queen Victoria's favourite colour.

In order to create St Katharine Docks, over 11,000 inhabitants were displaced and the once opened, the docks became a busy interchange, handling imports of tea, spices, perfumes, ivory, shells, wine and brandy. From the former Dockmaster's House (5) a bow window gave good vantage to ships coming and going.

These days, giant granite clumps dotted around the marina – crafted by Bow-based sculptor Paula Haughney into birds, tortoises and seashells – allude to the cargoes once offloaded here.

Dockside bollards depict St Katharine standing beside her breaking wheel and the Tower of London.

Despite its appearance, the galleried Dickens Inn (6) is a new arrival – the 18th century timber-framed structure originally formed a brewery a few streets away and was relocated here during the 1970s redevelopment. Outside, a lunchtime market of ferns tempting street food every Friday.

Use the footbridge to reach Ivory House (7), standing centre-stage with a distinctive clock tower. A retractable footbridge allowed ships to move from one basin to the other; the original designed by Thomas Rhodes, Telford's senior engineer, stands nearby.

Cut through the Ivory House archway and follow the eastern basin around to the right. This basin has a more residential feel, with housing developed since the docks closed in 1968. By the crumpled steel sculptures, branch off to the office complex at Thomas More Square.

Carl Milles' pipe-playing angel looks down whilst News UK journalists scurry to and fro.

There's a glimpse left to the former customs and excise offices of the London Docks, and views from Vaughan Way towards St Paul's Church on Dock Street and the Cooperative Wholesale Society clock tower.

Now escape The Highway traffic by nipping into Ensign Street. Pavement bollards monogrammed 'RBT' commemorate the Royal Brunswick Theatre that collapsed shortly after opening in 1828. It was replaced by the Brunswick Maritime Establishment, which accommodated a thousand sailors in double-tier cabins.

Tucked away on Graces Alley, Wilton's Music Hall (8) is the world's oldest surviving grand music hall. It has a colourful history – as an alehouse, concert room, music hall and Methodist Mission – before being revived as a theatre. Inside you'll find quirky gifts and the Mahogany bar provides an atmospheric setting for drinks.

Back outside, retrace a few steps and head to Cable Street, with the DLR viaduct running in parallel. A red plaque on Dock Street (9) commemorates the Battle of Cable Street in 1936 when dockworkers, communists and residents blocked Oswald Mosley's black-shirts from marching through the East End.

This stretch of Cable Street was once known as Rosemary Lane, noted for its clothes market or 'rag fair'. In the distance, the Artful Dodger pub (10) was converted from a Georgian warehouse; the frontage inscription boasts of 'Wholesale & Retail' trade, and the crown and seven stars were added in 1888 when the pub had that name.

The Peabody Estate (11) was one of many developed by banker-cum-philanthropist George Peabody. Look out for the memorial to 78 residents killed when Block K was bombed in 1940. Opposite, the alleyway takes you into a central courtyard surrounded by alphabetically named blocks.

Beyond, the path snakes its way beside pockets of greenery and colourful pavement lights. Ahead, you enter the Royal Mint once again. This approach offers a different perspective, with a fountain and neatly trimmed lawns beside 1980s office blocks.

Closer up, you'll see the vermiculated stone – cast like worm tracks – in the main building. After exploring, exit through the colossal gateway and retrace your steps to Tower Gateway, the end of your walk.

Be inspired by asylum seekers

Join in the Waiting Game at Oxford House this week

THE latest production by Bethnal Green-based theatre company Kazzum will see audiences wandering round one of the area's historic buildings.

Waiting Game is described as a 'promenade performance' for teenage audiences and is inspired by the experiences of young asylum seekers in the capital.

It is based on the story of Sen, a 20-year-old asylum seeker trying to avoid being sent back to her wartorn native country.

The performance takes the audience through the winding corridors and basements of Oxford House, where Kazzum is based, as they join Sen trying to negotiate endless queues, senseless rules and unexpected evictions.

Join Sen's world at performances starting this week at Oxford House in Derbyshire Street, E2. The dates are: Tuesday, January 21 at 10.30am & 1.30pm; Friday, January 24, 1.30pm; Monday, January 27, 10.30am; Tuesday, January 28, 10.30am & 1.30pm; and Friday, January 31, 1.30pm.

Keep on smiling with the festival of fun

Watch Charlie Chaplin in silent action at Rich Mix

BY LARAINNE CLAY

COMEDY is firmly on the agenda this week with the return of the LOCO London Comedy Film Festival.

And playing a key role in the programme are local cinemas Rich Mix and Genesis with plenty of films, workshops and other events to keep residents smiling.

Silent comedy and slapstick kick things off at Rich Mix at the top of Bethnal Green Road on Saturday, January 25.

A workshop for kids aged eight to 12 in the skills of slapstick will be held from 11.30am-12.45pm where they can learn silent film comedy techniques and how to make their own funny films.

And they can watch the master at work from 1pm with the screening of silent comedy The Circus featuring Charlie Chaplain as a tramp who finds the girl of his dreams when he gets a job at the circus.

On Sunday from 12-2pm, Rich Mix hosts an afternoon of animated comedy shorts with a series of films by UK film makers, some of whom will be interviewed after the screening. More details at www.richmix.org.uk

Genesis in Mile End Road, E1 joins in the fun with comedy film screenings running from Thursday until Sunday. They include the classic Withnail And I, Kind Hearts and Coronets, Four Lions and The Great Muppet Carper. For the full programme go to www.genescinema.co.uk

This is the third year of the film festival which is run by LOCO, a not-for-profit foundation set up to discover and develop distinctive comedy film makers.

Films are screened across London from January 23-26 including at Hackney Picturehouse in Mare Street, E8 and BFI Southbank.

And at the Book Club, 100 Leonard Street in Shoreditch, professional cartoonists and life models will help people learn the art of caricature from 4-6pm followed by the film The Night I Died at 7pm.

THERE are a busy couple of weeks coming up at The Space on the Isle of Dogs as the theatre celebrates the solo performer. The return of the venue's One Festival sees 16 pieces of new writing performed in four programmes from this Tuesday, January 22 until February 2.

Following its success last year, the festival features work from new acting, writing and directing talent. Artistic director Adam Hemming said: "We wanted to recognise the challenges and dedication of the solo performer and provide a network of support that is often lacking when you're working on such a piece."

"What is already a great test of a performer's ability, can also be quite a lonely process, especially when the piece has been written and directed by the performer." He said there was a high number of applications – the 16 selected will provide four distinct programmes of work.

"We're extremely confident each one will be well worth coming to see," he added. The full programme is on www.space.org.uk where tickets can be booked. E14 residents are eligible for half-price tickets to all shows. The Space is at 269 Westferry Road, E14 – contact info@space.org.uk or 7515 7799.

Ross goes arty at the Half Moon

EAST London artist Ross Head has a collection of drawings, prints and paintings on show at the Half Moon Theatre over the next few months.

A Transitional Moment explores the impact of humans on the landscape and our relationship with our surroundings.

Part of the exhibition features The Moon Series, eight new prints produced to reflect the physical transformation the theatre underwent last autumn as part of a refurbishment programme.

The prints used materials taken on a visit to the theatre during the works and the abstract images have been overlaid with colour to reflect phases of the moon.

Other paintings on display offer contrasting extremes of colour inspired by unfamiliar places.

The exhibition also features an art trail for children, special events and workshops for schools and community groups.

It runs until April 8 and is open during the theatre hours Monday to Friday, 10am-6pm and Saturdays, 10am-4pm (show days only).

For more information call the theatre at 43 White Horse Road, Stepney on 7709 8900 or visit www.halfmoon.org.uk

Earthy, inspired food that's close to perfection

BY GORDON BLUE

St John Bread and Wine is known for its passion for all things carnivorous, so what better test of service and breadth than to go vegetarian?

The venue is humble, almost Shaker-esque in style, and allows the food and menu to take centre stage without distraction.

The menu is quirkily divided up into time slots; you're allowed quite a spectrum of smaller plates from 6pm, which evolves into heartier dishes from 7pm. From past experience I can also state that this is the place for the ultimate bacon sandwich in London, served in their strict breakfast slot and available at weekends.

We trialled a starter of cauliflower, leeks and butter beans – sharp, pungent and earthy with a zingy dressing and served cold. It felt healthy too – which is an unexpected bonus – simple but delicious, it awakened our appetite for more.

Kohlrabi, brown shrimp and cucumber was cooling and

and again left us feeling virtuous, proving the hallowed triangle of fat, salt and sugar doesn't need to be the quick route to sated tastebuds.

Gearing up for the larger dishes, I had mussels in cider and Alexanders.

What are Alexanders you may ask? (I'm afraid, to my chagrin, I had to.) Well, the best way to describe them is a cross between celery and lovage, rather an old-fashioned ingredient now so wonderful to see on a menu.

It was refreshing and savoury and perfectly suited to the plump mussels (sourced from the Essex coast).

The other main dish of grilled sardines were full and meaty and enlivened with finely sliced shallots and a scattering of earthy parsley: pretty much perfect in my book.

All I can say on the pudding front is that my dining partner heralded his as the best pudding he has ever had, and I really can't even begin to calculate how many he's had so that's high praise indeed.

Eccles cake teamed with a large chunk of Lancashire cheese was inspired; the sweet richness of the raisins cutting through and equalised with the creamy sharpness of the generous cheese portion. A meal in itself and inspired.

I went for the bread pudding and butterscotch sauce and was equally delighted. Smooth butterscotch sauce cascading over thick and toothsome bread pudding was a panacea for a winter's day.

Two ate three courses accompanied with some of their own homemade wine for just under £70, including service.

Protein-packed taste of Spain

OMELETTES are a great quick and easy meal choice for lunch or dinner.

Eggs contain protein which will help you feel fuller for longer, with vitamins, minerals and a healthy type of cholesterol.

Adding chilli flakes or paprika will give it a spicy kick.

Spanish omelette – serves 2

4 medium-sized eggs
2 cloves of garlic, crushed
200g of pre-cooked potatoes

75g paneer cheese
1 teaspoon paprika or chilli flakes (optional)
1 bag of salad

Method

1. Preheat oven to 200°C.
2. Chop potatoes into small pieces, crush garlic and finely chop the onions.
3. Heat a pan to medium heat, add oil. Fry potatoes and onions until slightly coloured – add crushed garlic, cook for 1 minute
4. Whisk the eggs, add grated cheese and paprika or chilli.
5. Place potato, onions and garlic in ovenproof dish, pour egg mixture on the top to cover.
6. Bake for approximately 20 minutes until slightly golden brown.
7. Cut omelette into portions and serve with a salad.

Seen through the eyes of a child

"The artwork showcases the rich history and diversity of the East End from a child's perspective. We hope the community will enjoy this vibrant addition to the street scene for years to come."

NIRMAL KOTECHA, UK POWER NETWORKS

Property

TEN young artists took part in an arts project giving a unique insight into the history, heritage and culture of the area.

The children worked with a professional artist to create images of docks, bridges, textiles, buildings, music hall entertainment and other features of East End heritage.

The designs, unveiled last month, were turned into a giant mosaic by a team of artists in Exeter, who painstakingly set thousands of tiles into place to create permanent works of art. The mosaic has been mounted on the brick façade of an electricity substation in Osborn Street, Whitechapel, at the entrance to Brick Lane, as the project was part of UK Power Networks' £40 million investment to redevelop the building.

Pupils who created the artworks were from St Paul's primary, Osmani primary, Shapla primary, Blue Gate

Go wild and create a haven for birds and bees

Tips from Cable Street Community Gardens

JANUARY – and the start of a new year and a new growing season, although many will have already started sowing some seeds and bulbs in the autumn.

If you are enjoying some armchair gardening and glancing through the colourful seed catalogues, why not spare a thought for sharing your space with the birds and the bees?

Wildlife gardening not only creates beautiful surroundings but also much-needed food and shelter for a myriad of other creatures whose lives are important to our ecological infrastructure, but which are sadly often forgotten or even deterred.

Careful selection of plants and a few simple tweaks to the environment can make all the difference. So, when you are planning your garden/balcony/window box for this year, you could include:

■ Nectar- and pollen-rich plants for bees and insects such as red clover, cotoneaster, lilac, foxglove, aquilegia, catmint, rose, clematis, hollyhock, hyssop, runner beans and poached egg plant.

■ Long flowering plants which are easy for butterflies to land on, such as sunflowers, heliotrope, scabious, buddleia, phlox, dahlias, sweet william and marjoram.

■ Fruit- and seed-rich plants for birds, such as rowan, yarrow, blackcurrant, elderberry, crab apple, dog rose and hawthorn.

■ Climbers such as honeysuckle, jasmine and clematis, to provide shelter and shade from the hot summer sun.

■ Piles of logs, which can be stacked to look attractive, provide a welcome home for all kinds of beetles and insects, many of which help to keep your ground fertile.

■ Bird feeders and hanging baskets offering hours of spectator interest when placed close to a window and which give much needed food, particularly during winter months.

■ Space permitting, even the smallest of ponds can make a difference – providing habitat for frogs, newts and also a hunting ground for dragonflies and mayflies.

Happy gardening to you all and here's hoping for a bountiful 2014.

In happy memory of Graham Kenlin, who was very committed to wildlife gardening and who sadly died on December 30.

Tenant kicked out for sub-letting flat

Housing benefits cheat pocketed £900 a month in rent

BY STAFF REPORTER

A TENANT has been evicted after his social housing landlord found he had been illegally sub-letting his home while living at a different address.

Circle Housing Old Ford discovered Armus Ali had been sub-letting his flat in Jamaica Street, Stepney, for the past three years.

The housing association had been monitoring the property for a number of years and gathered evidence proving Ali had committed tenancy fraud.

He was receiving full housing benefit while charging an illegal occupant more than £900 a month in rent.

Marvelle Dublin, neighbourhood manager for the housing provider, said: "Circle Housing Old Ford takes fraudulent sub-letting extremely seriously.

"We want to ensure that our homes are lived in by those who need them and those they are intended for.

"People who commit this crime are not just defrauding the state, they are also preventing deserving families from getting a home."

The flat is now back in possession of the provider and will be made available to someone in need of social housing.

Over the past three years, Circle Housing Old Ford has recovered 12 homes as a result of its crackdown on illegal sub-letting.

It works closely with the council and other partners to tackle benefit and housing fraud.

Permit Transfer Scheme: for residents moving to 3 bedroom or larger social rented car free homes

The Mayor of Tower Hamlets introduced the new Permit Transfer Scheme (PTS) to operate from 5 September 2011 to help to reduce the levels of overcrowding in social rented housing in the borough. The PTS helps some families move to larger social rented car free homes by allowing them to retain one on-street resident car parking permit, subject to the PTS criteria as outlined below being met. The PTS is a change in the operation of the Council's existing on-street Residents' Parking Permit Scheme.

CAR FREE HOMES No on-street residents' parking permits issued

The Council's 'car free homes' planning policy was introduced in Tower Hamlets in the late 1990s to help reduce traffic congestion and better manage the limited supply of on-street parking spaces. This initiative also helps to reduce the level of air pollution from motor vehicles and encourages more people to walk, cycle and go by public transport.

The Transport for London (TfL) Cycle Hire scheme (www.tfl.gov.uk/cycling) and local pay-as-you-go car clubs (www.carplus.org.uk) are also now available in Tower Hamlets to help you get around in healthier, greener ways.

If you live in a car free home, you will not be able to apply for on-street residents' car parking permits, unless you hold a disabled driver's blue badge or are eligible under the Permit Transfer Scheme (PTS), which is targeted at social rented housing residents. The criteria for the PTS is as follows:

1. applies to residents moving to 3 bedroom or larger social rented car free homes;
2. only one on-street resident parking permit per household is permitted;
3. you must have held your on-street car parking permit for at least 1 year prior to moving home;
4. your on-street parking permit must be renewed and not lapse to remain eligible under the scheme;
5. the tenant is responsible for providing proof of PTS eligibility to Parking Services (including a duly signed and dated Tower Hamlets Homes or housing association approved tenancy agreement); and

6. the PTS was introduced on (and operates from) 5 September 2011 by Tower Hamlets Council and is not retrospective.

Residents in car free homes can apply for a temporary parking permit for visiting trades people for £5 a day. To qualify, written proof of the work to be carried out must be provided, along with the vehicle's details. Each home can apply for a maximum of 20 one-day-permits within a 6 month period.

Alternatively, scratchcards are available for trades people and visitors, providing parking for up to five hours on weekdays and all day on weekends. Households can apply for up to 3 books of 10 scratchcards per year. For permit charges and information, visit www.towerhamlets.gov.uk/parking

Sport

Sport in brief

Hamlets continue winning ways

TOWER Hamlets began the second half of the season in the Essex Senior League where they left off before the Christmas break – challenging for the title. They ran out deserved 2-1 winners over London Apsa at Terence McMillan Stadium to go joint top of the table.

They could not have asked for a better start with Luke With striking from 20 yards after just four minutes.

Centre-half Steve Brown headed home his fifth goal of the season to make it 2-0 just before half-time.

London Apsa were the better team in the second half and got their reward with the last kick of the game after a mistake from club captain Steve Willis allowed Keith Oppong to reduce the deficit after a nice build-up.

Comeback kids are just amazing

THE Tower Hamlets League under-12 cup final between Wapping Youth and Osmani looked all over as Wapping went 4-1 up with ten minutes left on the clock.

But they had not prepared for such an amazing comeback by Osmani who forced the game into a penalty shoot-out.

Both teams missed one of their five penalties, taking the final into sudden death.

It was a question of who would hold their nerve and it turned out to be the comeback kids Osmani.

League leaders Reama are held

LEAGUE leaders Reama hosted Springfield at Low Hall Farm and their Essex Sunday League clash ended in a thrilling 3-3 draw, Maurice Byfield, 2, and new signing Alfie Wren scoring for Springfield while Andrew Thomas, 2, and Kevin Bondjanga earned a point for Reama.

In the Premier Division Byron (Cooper, With and Sango) started 2014 with a brilliant 3-0 win over Hackney Downs A, and Stratford Juniors had a hard-fought 5-4 win over Stoke Newington.

In the First Division Lord Morpeth and Young Prince drew 0-0 and it was thanks to both goalkeepers Amando Hall (Morpeth) and Nick Pyne (Young Prince) for making it a blank day, Arbour (Marston, 4, Bird, 3, Dady and Guidera) just missed out on double figures with their 9-3 drubbing of Hackney Downs B, and Queensbridge Rangers was awarded all three points after Cranes failed to show up.

In Division Two New Ward Virtue (Jeffries, 4, Field, 3, Cummins, Mason and an own goal) hit double figures and kept a fine clean sheet with a 10-0 thumping of Workhouse to see them go top of the table. Cardigan (Stannard, 2, Whiting, 2) came away with a narrow 4-3 win over Castrillon.

Sub Alpha is the CSL cup hero

EAST One and Mohammedan shared a seven goal thriller in the first round of the CSL cup with East One edging it 4-3.

Mohammedan scored first, but Louis scored twice to give East One the lead before their opponents levelled the match.

The second half started with East One bringing on Alpha, but it was new winger Jeffrey who got on the scoresheet to make it 3-2.

East One couldn't hold on to the lead and Mohammedan equalised yet again before substitute Alpha scored the goal of the game.

Results: FC Bengals 4 Shadwell 2, East One 4 Mohammedan SC 3, SOUL 1 Abohani 1, (SOUL won 5-4 on penalties), West Ham SC 1 London Central, 1 (Central won 3-0 on penalties), E7 Probashi 5 SYA 1, Newark 3 Shoreditch 0, Poplar United 0 ACE 3.

Llamas fail to make it a double

MILLWALL'S second team started well at Wanstead, but in the end suffered a 38-14 defeat.

Fly-half Scott Vinnicombe was outstanding, but Llamas could not take advantage of his possession.

Wanstead found their way back into the game when their

Young Sharks shine despite a break

Bethnal Green Sharks' young swimmers put in some fine performances in the Redbridge Winter Meet after a three-week festive holiday break. Despite the lack of action the youngsters excelled to enjoy a great start to 2014. Those who excelled and achieved great times were Kai Ogden, Ronnie Phillimore, Agni Hatzakis and Lucas Boardman – all medal winners in their races – and Tahlia Deaner, Omar Kakar, Gaia Phillimore, Chloe Newman and Melissa Eloidin also performed well.

strong winger went over twice in the first half. Ali Jamieson converted.

At the beginning of the second half the Llamas were much improved and Tendai Horton came on and went over from over 30 yards.

No Llamas game would be complete without an Alessandro Penna try and he went over in the second half from deep in his own half. Jamieson again converted.

Millwall 1st team lost 20-8 away to May & Baker, in a top of the league clash, that sees Millwall still in second place; 3rd team won 24-22 at home to Ilford.

Incentive to play basketball

THE University of East London (UEL) has got £3,000 for one lucky athlete in east London with ambitions of becoming a basketball star.

UEL is now accepting applications for its 2014-15 basketball scholarship programme which offers the cash bursary as well as a range of support services.

The remarkable development of basketball over the last four years at UEL has seen them play host to the USA Dream Team during the lead up to and throughout the London 2012 Games. They have also played host to the Detroit Pistons.

Previous recipients include current BBL players Brandon McGill (Surrey Utd), Zak Gachette and Colin Sing (Sheffield Sharks), Jamell Anderson (Leicester Riders) and Myles Hesson (current GB international).

The programme is led by new head coach JP Campbell and current UEL basketball scholar and GB under-20 trialist Dougie Bennett has been part of the programme for three years.

Hockey aces go on scoring spree

WAPPING Hockey Club returned to league action in devastating form and destroyed Blueharts 9-1.

Blueharts are an experienced and organised outfit, but they were simply blitzed by rampant Wapping.

Within five minutes, Wapping took the lead, Rory Heaslip beating the keeper from the top of the 'D' and from then on, confidence surged through the team.

Further goals came from Ollie Salvesen on the reverse stick, Sam Gilliat with a neat low finish, and two (including one from the penalty spot) from captain Oliver Cooper.

The score at half-time was an impressive 5-0 with the result effectively beyond doubt.

In the second half Blueharts, now playing for pride, were forced to abandon their defensive game and this left their defence exposed, with Grant Aidoo scoring a second half hat-trick and Heaslip adding his second.

Wapping conceded a late penalty corner, resulting in a deflected own goal.
